ANNUAL REPORT OF GIVING

FROM THE BOARD CHAIR

As Chair of the Board of Trustees, I am proud to lead the School through a very important period in its history. In the coming year, we will celebrate both the 175th anniversary of the founding of Pennington in 1838, and the 40th anniversary of the re-admittance, in 1973, of girls as students to the School. The confluence of these milestones says a lot about Pennington—rooted in tradition and open to new ways of pursuing excellence. We will be marking these occasions with festivities which are true to our history, our present, and our future.

The year leading up to our anniversary has been an excellent preparation. Thanks to generous contributions from the Board, our alumni, parents, faculty, and many friends, we have had the resources to invest in the school, helping us to deliver a great environment for all those who teach and learn at Pennington. Thank you—our donors—for making this possible.

It was an honor for me to be able to thank many of you in person, at two events held during Alumni Weekend in May. The first was an Open House in Stainton Hall to unveil plaques and donor boards recognizing those who had contributed to the Campaign for Pennington, which funded refurbishments in our science labs and created a new turf field. We were especially delighted to welcome John McGuire, my predecessor as Board Chair, and his wife Pamela. It was his vision which led to those developments.

Later that evening, I had great pleasure in hosting a reception at The Bedens Brook Club for leadership donors to the Pennington Fund, as well as the classes of 1977 and earlier who were celebrating their 5-year reunions. Professor Stanley Renshon '62, Julio Gomez, Jr. '77 and Jane Sortor Keene '77 were inducted into the Order of the Tower, an important part of Pennington School history, recognizing alumni, teachers, or friends for outstanding service to The Pennington School or to the global community. Two of the three Tower Award recipients were contemporaries of mine at Pennington. This brought home to me, even more powerfully than ever, how much the School depends on these personal relationships for our strength.

When the new academic year begins, our students will start to build their own relationships within the community, discovering so much about themselves and what they are capable of. Thanks to you, our donors, Pennington is ready to guide and support them.

About the cover

Allan Rosenberg '66, an accomplished professional photographer, spent a week in May as Pennington's first Artist in Residence. Throughout his stay, he documented a week in the life of Pennington—in the classroom, around campus, Alumni Weekend—and much more. His work is now part of our permanent archive. We are grateful to him for contributing these photographs, including the cover shot, many of which can be seen in this publication.

FROM THE HEAD OF SCHOOL

The year 2011–2012 was one of great growth and strength for The Pennington School. We received more than $1.2 million, including over $867,000 for the Pennington Fund, a new record, and over $200,000 for scholarships. These funds are critical to the success of our School. They provide a significant portion of our operating budget; they help pay the salaries of our very gifted faculty and staff; and they ensure that both students and faculty have the programs and facilities they need to fully engage in the remarkable Pennington experience.

Pennington, now more than ever, bears crucial responsibility for understanding the needs and demands of the complicated world for which we are preparing our students. Daily stories in the media remind us of how education must adapt to the new technologies and to the global society and economy. We must bring the best thinking into our classrooms, chapel, dorms, dining hall, library, athletic fields, and performance spaces. All good schools try to do this, but independent schools have the flexibility, vision, and, with the help of our loyal supporters, the resources to lead the way.

This year our teachers and leadership team have engaged in deep dialogue about leadership, innovation, and creativity in our increasingly complex and ambiguous world. Through professional development, reading, and conversations across disciplines, we have renewed our energy and vision. We want to know how a culture that prizes entrepreneurial spirit in its most successful citizens can potentially both improve and strengthen us.

Our task now is to translate this infusion of inspiration into our work at the School. This is where your support is making an enormous difference. Thanks to your contributions, we were not only able to fulfill our salary and facility commitments, we were able to invest in some of the training and technology we will need to move forward.

What will define much of what we do this year as a learning community will be a new iPad program. The first step has been to put an iPad into the hands of every single teacher in the School. In June, teachers took part in a 2-day conference led by the Director of the Center for Learning and the Director of Academic Technology to explore the capabilities of these new tools in promoting the kind of self-directed, investigative learning which we must inculcate in our students. We are working toward a relevant technological vision that is unified with and driven by our academic program. This in turn is driven by what we know and continue to discover about how to blend personal relationships between teachers and students with research about how we learn. It is also informed by the importance of igniting in students an intrinsic passion for learning, which is the only sure basis for each student achieving at his or her highest potential.

We could not have taken these steps without your support. The Parents Association led the way with a generous grant to buy the iPads. Current parents from Korea gave to the Pennington Fund with the request that we use their gift to enhance technology, which enabled us to upgrade our wireless infrastructure. The gift of a current parent who is also an alumnus was used for the June professional development conference. And all of your gifts enabled us to do all those things which makes Pennington a transformative and caring school.

As we enter our 175th school year and 40th year of educating females, I am confident that Pennington is on the right path.

On behalf of The Pennington School, I thank each and every person and organization who supported us with their gifts. The education we provide is only possible because of your generosity. To us, each gift represents love for our students and respect for our teachers, and is a testament to the importance of what we do. It gives me great pleasure to present this report to you.

The Pennington Fund contributes approximately 5% of the revenue needed to run the school, enabling us to supplement income from tuition. We are very grateful to our many donors for their help in reaching a new record for the Fund—$867,839. This was an increase of over $90,000 (12%) from the $776,157 raised in the previous year. We are also delighted to see an increase in the total number of donors—from 731 last year to 800 this year, and greater participation among parents and alumni.

CURRENT PARENTS

The Pennington School would like to thank the Parents Committee of the Pennington Fund, ably led by Jeannie and Joe Colalillo P'06 '11 '18, for working with dedication and enthusiasm to achieve record-breaking success in the 2011–2012 Pennington Fund. Our current parents generously contributed $525,427 this year. Overall 58% of our current parents participated in the annual fund, an increase of 5% over last year's participation rate of 53%.

THE SOCRATIC METHOD GOES DIGITAL

In the past few years, teaching and learning have returned to their classical roots. Instead of students passively absorbing lessons from teachers standing in front of the classroom, education is becoming a collaborative, interactive dialogue in which teachers encourage students to pose questions, search for answers, and present their work to others. Socrates would have been impressed. Nowadays, technology gives teachers and students the tools to take their pursuit of knowledge to new levels.

With the help of gifts from parents and the Parents Association, Pennington will be able to explore how best to bring these tools into the classroom. We have started with the Faculty, putting an iPad into the hands of each teacher. They will spend the coming year working independently and together with the iPad to understand better its potential in the classroom. All course work—recordings of lessons, maps, charts, graphs, works of art, music, literature—can be created, stored, and accessed on an iPad with the touch of a button.

Already we are making great strides. Tom Horsley, Chair of the Science Department, has “flipped” his classroom, by presenting students with content through online video lectures for homework, and using class time to stimulate discussions and answer questions. “Students have the opportunity to watch lectures at their own pace, stopping and rewinding as needed,” Tom says, “and the ‘flipped’ classroom eliminates the scenario of a student sitting on their own, frustrated with questions or problems. Now working in the classroom as a group on typical homework questions, the students become much more resourceful. One ingenious student even replayed parts of the online lecture on his iPad to refresh the group’s memory.”

It’s not only our academic program which is benefiting from this wave of innovation. Dean of Students Chad Bridges has brought the iPad into residential life, using it for sharing and managing information with the boarding students. Chad emphasizes that with their iPads “our residential faculty will be able to move throughout campus and provide extra help to students in the evening. They will have the opportunity to work with all students regardless of their location, including our freshman study hall, math extra help room or evening library study halls.”

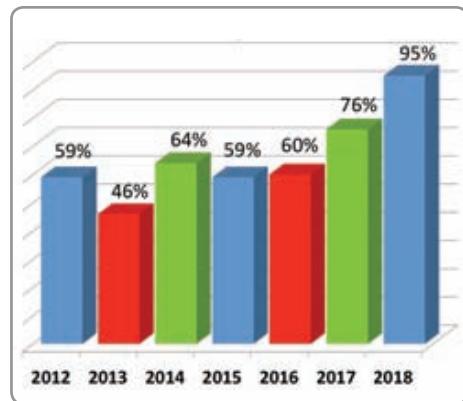

This is just the beginning. Next year we will ask all our students to bring their own iPads to the classroom. Then we will really start to see where these new techniques can take us. Thanks to our donors, and the commitment of our teachers, we will be ready.

Tom Horsley, Chair of the Science Department, prepares for class using his iPad in his classroom.

THE PAGE AND OTTO MARX CHALLENGE GRANT

The Pennington School has a long-standing commitment to offer opportunities to disadvantaged students in our community. We believe that the kind of education Pennington can provide—with small classes, talented and dedicated teachers, individual attention, and rich experiences outside of the classroom—is vital for the future of our society. Accordingly, we offer significant amounts of financial aid to enable students who have the potential to succeed but lack the means to pay tuition to attend.

The Page and Otto Marx Foundation supports a scholarship program each year dedicated to financial aid for students of color at Pennington. It challenges the school to match their $120,000 grant with support from other donors.

In 2012, alumni, parents, and the wider community responded to the call from the Marx Foundation. Reunion alumni—the class years ending with 2s and 7s—raised $35,000, and many of them joined their former classmates at Alumni Weekend on May 18 and 19 to reconnect and celebrate in the glorious sunshine. The 17th Annual Pennington Scholarship Golf Classic on June 11 drew together 116 golfers including alumni, trustees, parents, and friends of the school, generating another $35,000. These two figures, combined with $60,000 donated by individuals to scholarship endowments during the year, enabled the school to surpass the Marx Foundation's Challenge Grant goal.

We are thrilled to be able to continue to provide for the student beneficiaries of this and other scholarship programs at Pennington, and we recognize that our entire community benefits from the presence and inclusion of diverse groups of students in all areas of the school.

Members of the Class of 1987 enjoy their 25th Reunion at Alumni Weekend, May 18–19, 2012.
